Allen (March 9, 1922 – March 16, 2002) was an American civil rights activist. He is best known for his work as a Freedom Rider, traveling to Alabama to integrate a bus company in 1956. He died the morning of March 16, 2002 while riding with other freedom riders. Career During the mid 1950s Allen was a member of SNCC, an organization established to integrate schools in the South following the Supreme Court ruling in Brown v. Board of Education. The black-and-white photographs are, if anything, even starker than they look in person. The artist has used the powers of post-processing to extract the grains of the finished print out of each image. Zhang’s 2013 show “What Is Left Behind” resonated with viewers because of its connection to the death of his cousin, Zhang Huan — a beloved former UCLA basketball star who died after a car accident. The series is also a tribute to Zhang’s grandmother, who still lives in China. The Museum of Contemporary Art is the latest venue to take a look at Zhang Yan’s work. Earlier this year, he had an exhibition of 31 new photographs at the White Columns Art Galleries in New York. Marketing Strategy: It's Not Just for the Big Boys Before there were fancy storytelling
