Is there a way to align text in a MFC window so it won't look like the following? For example, the bottom of the second line of text would be aligned with the top of the first line. A: If you want it to look like just one line, your only option would be to break it down into multiple labels. This will unfortunately still get you into the 2-lines-per-line problem. However, by setting a label to 'Flexible Width' (in the advanced properties, either in the IDE, or in the code), it should stretch to fit the text, which should get you past the issue of having it look like two lines. Edit: as Peli pointed out in a comment, you can also use the TableLayout or TableLayoutPanel. This will stretch to fit the text. A team of researchers at the University of California, Berkeley have proposed a new DNA synthesis method. As opposed to more traditional methods of DNA synthesis, the proposed process breaks large DNA sequences into short fragments that can be repeatedly copied and reassembled. The researchers, led by Emmanuelle Charpentier, director of the Max Planck Institute of Infection Biology in Berlin, Germany, say that current DNA synthesis methods are "full of problems" as they require "long and tedious procedures." While the technique is already widely used in research laboratories, scientists can only take a tiny piece of the DNA sequences out for a study as they can only "expose" the DNA one base-pair at a time. For example, scientists need to sequence the whole genome, which are about three billion base pairs, just to find one gene that may be of interest. The problem is that these genes may be buried within larger strands of DNA and hence, it is not possible to isolate them. "The total process—sequencing, mapping, and synthesis—takes many long months
